The Editor's Note

Welcome to the November issue of BUZZAAR, where we celebrate heritage, innovation, and the spirit of discovery across the Gulf and beyond. This month, our lead story pays tribute to Oman, marking its 55th National Day with a feature that explores the nation's remarkable journey of vision, culture, and unity. From its rich traditions to sustainable initiatives and thriving creativity, Oman exemplifies the balance between honoring heritage and embracing progress.

Fifty-five years ago, a remarkable journey began — one that transformed a serene land of deserts and seas into one of the Arab world's most stable, forward-looking, and harmonious nations. Today, as Oman marks its 55th National Day, the Sultanate stands as a proud symbol of progress rooted in tradition, a country that has gracefully balanced the winds of modernity with the wisdom of its past.

THE ART OF SLOW LIVING

READ

“

In a world dominated by notifications, deadlines, and endless connectivity, the concept of slow living has emerged as both a sanctuary and a lifestyle choice. It's more than a trend — it's a conscious decision to pause, reflect, and embrace life at a more intentional pace. For residents of the GCC, where fast-paced urban living and ambitious professional schedules are the norm, slow living offers a pathway to balance, wellness, and fulfillment.

The Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) region is home to a rich culinary tapestry that spans deserts, coasts, and oasis towns. Rooted in centuries of trade, cultural exchange, and local traditions, GCC cuisine has long been admired for its aromatic spices, bold flavors, and communal spirit. Today, it is stepping confidently onto the global stage, as chefs and culinary innovators elevate traditional dishes into fine dining and fusion concepts, blending heritage with contemporary flair.
